Cities are hubs of artistic activity. People are drawn to cities because of their artistic offerings and they are the place where the majority of artists live and work. But how and why did this intertwining of art and cities come about? And what effects has it had on cities and on the arts? This course investigates the art of urban life (such as the development of bohemia); genres of art that arose in and of the city (photography, the Broadway musical, hip hop); spaces of the city that become identified as an arts enclave (SoHo, “museum mile”); and the municipal policy and politics that both support and confound the arts in cities (public art). We read first-hand and historical accounts of artists in the city and analyze artworks for their portrayals of the ties between urban life and artistic vision.

Throughout the course we will be relating ideas about art and the city to specific artists and artworks. We will consider the topic of each week in light of an artist or artwork and we will be paying attention to one artist in particular – Theaster Gates – who is the recipient this year of a prize from the Vera List Center for Art and Politics. The final project will be a letter or artwork to him that puts his artwork into the context of the class, that of art and urbanization. (Please see theastergates.com for pictures and descriptions of his work.)

Learning Objectives

- Understand the ways in which many arts are bound to the social, political, economic, and demographic forces of cities.
- Build a historical understanding of the forces that intertwine the arts and urbanization.
- Compare scholarly, creative, and more popular understandings of urban life.
- Connect readings and discussions to experiential knowledge of the city.
- Write papers that convey analytical thinking, a command of the readings, original ideas, and accurate acknowledgement of sources.

Readings and Film

The required reading materials are available on Blackboard (under the Resources tab). They are compiled by week. The one required movie is accessible via ereserves with the password “@rtinc1ty” (without the quote marks). This password is for use by students enrolled in this course and should not be shared with anyone else. Ereserves is accessible via the link below directly to our class or via Blackboard (at the bottom of the menu on the left).

COURSE REQUIREMENTS
Relate Reading to Artist, Artwork, or Place (25%): At three times during the semester, write a brief analysis (2-3pgs) that applies the readings to the related artist, artwork, or place for the week. Consider how the related artist, artwork, or place explains, contradicts, or expands the readings. How does your understanding of the readings change when you consider the artist, artwork, or place and vice-versa? All three reports must be done by April 15.

Dérive (20%): Conduct a Situationist walk through the city and record it in a mental map of your journey. Detail the map in either written or visual form with explanatory comments. What kind of knowledge of the city do you gain from this walk and the documentation of it in a map? Due February 25.

Monument Study (25%): Pick a monument in the city. Research its making, both the physical creation and the political process. Look out at the city from its vantage point. What has changed – in the city, about the monument, about the relation between the two? Write a report that conveys that research and analysis (5-7pgs). Due April 29.

Letter to Theaster Gates (30%): Write a letter to Theaster Gates that considers three aspects of his work: 1) historical themes that influence his artwork; 2) comparison and analysis of his work to that of three other artworks or readings from the class; and 3) issues to consider in his next projects. This should be a substantial work (i.e., 7-10pgs) that can contain visual or creative responses in addition to written analysis. Letters will be given to Gates and posted on the Vera List Center’s blog about the prize. Due May 20.

CLASS POLICIES
Attendance: All credit students are required to attend class each week. Your grade for the course as a whole will be lowered one step upon 2 absences (i.e., from B to B-). Three or more absences will result in an automatic failure of the class.

Lateness: If you are more than ten minutes late to a class it will count as an absence. Late papers will not be accepted and no incompletes given.

Cell Phones + Laptops: Cell phone and laptop use is prohibited at all times in the classroom. Turn them OFF before class. The exception to the laptop rule is students who can provide documentation of a learning disability that requires the use of their laptops.

Academic Honesty. Plagiarism -- the use of another person’s words or ideas in any academic work -- or any other form of academic dishonesty will result in serious academic penalties, from a failing grade in the class to expulsion from the university. For information on avoiding plagiarism through proper acknowledgements, including expectations for paraphrasing source material and forms of citation in research and writing, students should visit The New School Writing Center (see http://www.newschool.edu/writingcenter/virtual-handout-drawer/).

Please note that students must receive prior permission from instructors to submit the same or substantially overlapping material for two different assignments. Submission of the same work for two assignments without prior permission is plagiarism.
OTHER IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Libraries. The New School Library offers frequent research workshops for students, the day, time, and location of which are posted to the Library webpage (http://library.newschool.edu/events/) each semester. The library also provides one-on-one support for students who want additional assistance in conducting research. Students can contact the library about scheduling a one-on-one appointment with a reference librarian at the following link:
http://library.newschool.edu/reference/request.php

Writing Center. Students are highly encouraged to take advantage of the university writing center, located at 71 Fifth Avenue, 9th floor (Between 14th and 15th Streets). To make an appointment, you can e-mail the writing center at writingcenter@newschool.edu or call 212.229.5121. For further information, please visit the Writing Center web site: www.newschool.edu/admin/writingcenter/

Academic Honesty. Plagiarism (the use of another person’s words or ideas in any academic work) or any other form of academic dishonesty will result in serious academic penalties, from a failing grade in the class to expulsion from the university. For information on avoiding plagiarism through proper acknowledgements, including expectations for paraphrasing source material and forms of citation in research and writing, students should consult the MLA Style Manual and Guide to Scholarly Publishing (2nd edition), Chapter 6, on documentation. The Bachelor’s Program provides useful online resources to inform students of correct forms of research and writing. To access these resources, go to http://www.newschool.edu/ba/ and click on the link “Resources for Current Students.”

The New School Writing Center also provides online resources about avoiding plagiarism. (See http://www.newschool.edu/admin/writingcenter/index.html.)

Please note that students must receive prior permission from instructors to submit the same or substantially overlapping material for two different assignments. Submission of the same work for two assignments without prior permission is plagiarism.

Disabilities. In keeping with the university’s policy of providing equal access for students with disabilities, any student with a disability who may need academic accommodations should contact the office of Student Disability Services. Students requesting any accommodations will need to meet with Jason Luchs, who will conduct an intake and, if appropriate, provide an academic accommodation notification letter. All conversations will be kept confidential. Mr. Luchs’s office is located at 80 Fifth Ave, 3rd Floor (luchsj@newschool.edu, 212.229.5626 x3135).
